

Children reading to aid research

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In reading books to help medical research, youngsters 6 to 14 may be providing a big boost to solving the mystery of multiple sclerosis. The book reading is being called a READ-a-thon.

"When I was a kid polio was the big scare. Today it is almost nonexistent. We can wipe out multiple sclerosis as we did polio by providing the means for research to find the answers and this may be one way," declared actress Janet Leigh.

The lovely blue-eyed blonde actress is national chairman of the Multiple Sclerosis READ-a-thon, an educational and fund-raising program that helps children develop reading skills as they raise funds to help support research for MS. The goal is to raise a million and a half dollars in 1975, says Miss Leigh, who has also been active in kidney foundations and in organizations that help the retarded.

"Every child who participates becomes a mystery sleuth (MS) to help solve the mystery of multiple sclerosis. A child reads one or more books for a sponsor — relative, friend or neighbor — and receives a pledge of a donation for each book read. The child is really participating in a project for others, but it is a good way for children to know how wonderful books can be and to start their interest in reading at an early age.

"I've had friends struck by multiple sclerosis. It strikes the central nervous system of young adults between 20 and 40 years of age," she explained.

More than 500,000 Americans are said "to be afflicted with MS and closely related disorders." It affects the brain and spinal cord which control such important body functions as walking, talking, eating, tying a shoelace or opening a door. When the disease hits, patches of myelin, the material which coats the nerves, disintegrate and become replaced by scar tissue. Why this happens is a medical mystery.

Schools and libraries welcome the reading plan, Miss Leigh insists. Experimental READ-a-thons were begun in Cleveland and were an instant success. As the national program gets underway already 111 chapters are holding 267 READ-a-thons with an estimated 1,800,000 youngsters enrolled. While donations pledged for a book that is read might be as little as 10 cents, competition is keen. Children are reporting results that exceed expectations. One girl earned $23 for reading 25 books.

Miss Leigh is timing her activities in the MS campaign between rehearsals for her first Broadway play, "Murder Among Friends." Both her daughters are in the cast. Kelly, 19, is a sophomore at Skidmore. Jamie, 17, a high school senior, recently transferred to Choate-Rosemary in Connecticut.

Miss Leigh is married to California stockbroker Robert Brandt.

"It is hard to believe it is my first play. I'm one of those few people who actually was born, raised and discovered in California and I've done only movies and television."

Any connection, however, between the mystery play and the "mystery sleuths" is pure coincidence, she says, even though mysteries have been an influence in her successful career. Of her 40 starring roles in films, perhaps her biggest success was the Alfred Hitchcock thriller "Psycho" which earned her several awards.

Island park becoming showplace

DETROIT (AP) — A midwestern tourist attraction is taking shape here on an island just five blocks from the city's most densely populated neighborhood.

The transformation of the only complete island park in an American city into a multimillion-dollar sports-recreational-entertainment complex is being sped to completion by a city administration that has not backed off despite the fiscal problems that it, like most cities, face.

Belle Isle, a 1,000-acre enclave in the Detroit River midway between Detroit and Windsor, Ont., has provided a respite from urban life since it was acquired by the city in 1879 for $200,000.

Its worth is estimated today at $54 million.

Detroiters, including 220,000 Citizen Friends of Belle Isle, have joined with leading business and industrial firms to improve park facilities. Mayor Coleman Young, who grew up near Belle Isle and enjoyed sports there as a youngster, has made its continued growth part of his administration's policy.

He has asked for $16 million in federal funds to create new recreational opportunities along the city's eight-mile riverfront to redevelop Belle Isle and other parks. Ray Rickman, president of Friends of Belle Isle and rallier of community support, calls the park "a symbol of the new dynamism in Detroit; an opportunity for us to tell the region and the nation that Detroit is alive and well."

The two-year-old civic improvement organization has hired a leading landscape architect, Dan Kiley & Partners of Vermont, to prepare a master plan that will turn Belle Isle into a major tourist attraction within five years. The first Belle Isle plan was conceived in 1883 by Frederick Law Olmstead, who is famous for designing New York's Central Park.

The park, which draws 4.6 million Detroit area residents yearly, already provides fishing, swimming, golf, tennis, baseball, rugby, and soccer.

Threat of Ford veto remains

Senate considers tax revision bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is likely to keep up the heat of his veto threat when the Senate next week begins scrutiny of the House-passed bill carrying $13 billion in personal tax cuts for 1976.

Ford's 2-month-old demand that any tax cut be tied to a lid on government spending was repeated Thursday when the President, in Peking, phoned House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes shortly before the final House vote on the tax bill.

Rhodes later told reporters that Ford repeated his vow that "he positively would veto this bill if it did not have a ceiling" on federal spending linked to it.

After getting this word from Rhodes, the House narrowly rejected such a link-up in the form of Ford's proposed $395-billion lid on federal spending for fiscal 1977, the year starting next Oct. 1.

The vote of 220 to 202 against a spending lid found 218 Democrats and two Republicans overpowering 139 Republicans and 63 Democrats.

The tax cut then was approved 257 to 168, with 225 Democrats and 32 Republicans for the bill, 111 Republicans and 57 Democrats opposed.

In the Senate, there are signs the bill might be split apart for fast consideration of the tax-cut features, leaving until next year the more controversial and time-consuming tax revisions approved by the House.

"Soon" was Senate Finance Chairman Russell B. Long's reply when asked when he expects a tax bill to get to the Senate floor. Senate sources say that means something like the week of Dec. 15, or right before Congress adjourns for the year.

The lawmakers face time pressures imposed by the Dec. 31 expiration of the existing tax cuts.

The House-passed version contains a sweeping series of proposals that House Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., said would collect $3 billion presently "guarded by tax loopholes and preferences."

Before approving the final bill, the House voted 379 to 27 to purge a feature which would have provided $165 million next year in special tax refunds for some high-income investors, including a reported $15 million for Texas businessman H. Ross Perot.

Here's how the bill would affect a typical couple with two children and $15,000 of basic annual income. That couple paid $1,699 in taxes under the 1974 law. They'll pay $1,579 under the temporary tax cuts for this year, and they would pay $1,510 under the House-passed bill.

However, if existing law vanishes on schedule at midnight Dec. 31, they'll be back under 1974's law and be paying $1,699 again.

There's some talk in the Senate of seeking a way to buy time for congressional-presidential compromise next year through a simple extension of existing law for, perhaps, three months or maybe even six months.

The question then becomes whether Ford would veto such a three-month tax cut extension.

"I did not ask that specific question," Rhodes told reporters who asked about his longdistance conversation with the President in China, "but in my opinion he would."

Communications seen key to operation of Chamber

By GEORGE MALEK

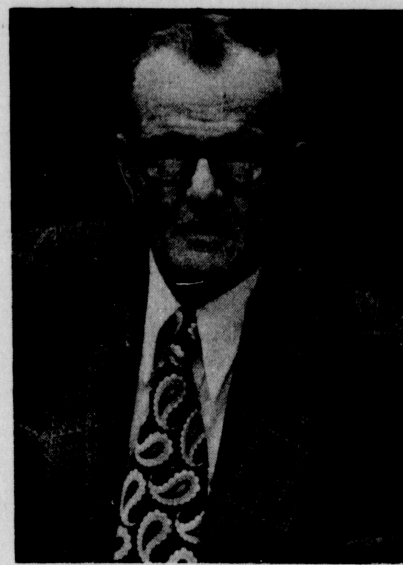

After taking over the position of Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce executive vice president Monday, Richard F. Kilian has spent almost all of his time introducing himself to members.

The president of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce in 1965, Kilian left the city in 1967 to serve as personnel manager of the National Cash Register Co. plant in Mount Joy, Pa. He retired from that position last month.

The new Chamber executive feels communications is the key to a forceful operation. The number one priority is to meet with as many Chamber members as possible and establish lines of communication, he said.

The main objectives of a Chamber of Commerce, Kilian explained, are to collect and organize information about the city and surrounding area which can be made readily available to current businesses and prospective builders; and to "sell" the area to solid commercial and industrial enterprises who consider locating here.

In conjunction with both of these objectives, the Chamber can spearhead projects which will make the area more appealing for its residents and those inquire about the possibility of locating in the area.

Kilian said he has been greatly impressed with the progress made by the Washington C.H. area since his departure. At that time, the city's industrial park was still in its infancy, and the Washington Square Shopping Center was in the initial stages of operation.

In the interim, the industrial park land has been completely sold to industrial firms, the shopping center has been expanded, and a wealth of commercial and retail enterprises have opened.

The new Chamber facility and the Main Street Mall as a whole are tremendously impressive, Kilian said. He finds this extremely gratifying. "Part of the purpose of the Chamber is to make an impression on out-of-town callers," he explained. The new facility is a major step in upgrading this first impression, he concluded.

The Chamber obviously had some exceptional leadership in the past, he noted. The community has apparently experienced some very solid growth while retaining the intimate atmosphere which make the area so appealing.

The residents are as warm as ever, and it is just fantastic to be back, he said. He and his wife Jennie are renting an apartment on Colonial Court while seeking to purchase a home here.

Kilian has already met with some 60 members of the Chamber of Commerce and finds them very enthusiastic. It has been a doubly interesting time because of a past association with many of the members, he added. While taking such a position in an unfamiliar area would bring about a wealth of new friendships, Kilian has the opportunity

R-H to publish letters to Santa

Many parents wonder what their children have included in letters to Santa Claus, but in an effort to preserve the privilege of personal mail have refused to open their children's letters.

If this has been the case in your home, relief is on the way. Record-Herald Editor Mike Flynn has been "officially" designed as one of Santa's helpers by the newsroom staff. As we interpret the U.S. Postal Service codes, any of Santa's helpers is authorized to accept mail for the jolly old man.

By addressing letters to Santa in care of the Record-Herald 128 S. Fayette St., parents can avoid prying into their children's letters.

By printing "Letters to Santa," the Record-Herald promises to forward the "confidential" information to Santa himself.

Be sure your child has signed his or her name and address so that "Santa" will know who is seeking the gift mentioned.

Michigan resident wins Ohio lottery

CLEVELAND (AP)—Michigan factory worker Richard Schrader says he's been exchanging about $3 worth of lottery tickets with his sister-in-law in Cleveland every week since the Ohio lottery started last year.

"I buy Michigan lottery tickets and send them to her, and she buys Ohio tickets and sends them to me," said Schrader, from Lansing.

Thursday night the mutual exchange paid off when Schrader won $1,000 a month for life in the Ohio lottery's Buckeye 1,000 game.

Schrader said his sister-in-law, Marie Salzer, won $25 once in the Michigan lottery.

Schrader said he's been planning to retire in a few years and go to Florida, where a son, Paul, 27, lives.

Now, he said, "Maybe I'll make it a couple of years earlier ..."

One contestant in the Buckeye 1,000 said at first he wanted to remain anonymous but changed his mind at the last minute and gave his name as Charles Huxtable.

Huxtable of Twinsburg won $4,000. Charles Mobley of Eaton won $10,000. Other winners included Esther Bevan, Bucyrus, $7,500; Linda Briley, Reynoldsburg, $5,000; Walter Armour, Bromley, Ky., $3,000; James Seever, Marietta, $2,000, and John Mick, Bainbridge, $1,000.

First numbers were drawn Thursday night in the Super Santa game. The winning numbers: (six-digit) 946340; (five-digit) 40105; (four-digit) 5612; (two-digit) 61, 76, 11, 63.

The regular weekly numbers in the Buckeye 1,000 game were:

Six-digit number: 293160.

Five-digit: 88145.

Four-digit: 7394.

Three-digit: 732.

Sonny, Cher slate new show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sonny and Cher are together again, but it's only for a new television variety series.

The couple, divorced last June, will star in a show to replace Cher's present solo series on CBS in February.

"After we finish work every day we'll go our separate ways," said Sonny Bono, 40, at a news conference Thursday. Cher, 29, said she found her series limited and that she missed having Sonny to banter with.

Cher's tart-tongued putdowns were a characteristic of their hit show that ran for three seasons on CBS until its cancellation in May 1974 when their marriage broke up.

Although Sonny said the format of their new show is yet to be worked out, their witty battle of the sexes undoubtedly will be a part of it. She admitted several putdowns during the news conference. Sonny said, "Cher can hum and I know what she's thinking."

Sonny and Cher were married Oct. 27, 1964, and divorced last June 27. Three days later Cher married rock star Gregg Allman. She filed suit for divorce nine days after that, then withdrew it in August. Allman filed suit for divorce in Macon, Ga., last month.

Cher and Sonny said they have no plans for a personal reconciliation.

Sonny's efforts at a solo series on ABC flopped last fall. Cher's show, which began last February, has been in serious trouble in the ratings lately. Their show together was a hit and CBS obviously hopes that lightning will strike again.

A very out of the ordinary court session was held in the Washington C.H. Municipal Court chambers Thursday afternoon.

Washington C.H. Police Chief Rodman Scott opened the session as acting bailiff and newly elected Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Robert L. Simpson presided over outgoing Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner's retirement party.

During the session, local attorneys and judges along with many of Judge Winegardner's friends stood and briefly expressed their sorrow over his retirement and wished him luck in the future.

The 75-year-old Judge Winegardner will have completed 13 years on the bench as of Jan. 1, his official retirement date. He will be succeeded by Simpson, a Washington C.H. attorney who defeated former Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge John P. Case in the November general election.

Judge Winegardner graduated from the Ohio Northern University college of law in 1921, at the age of 21. He was admitted to the Ohio Bar Association and American Bar Associations also in that year. He is former president of the Fayette County Bar Association and served four years as solicitor and legal advisor for the village of Jeffersonville.

Judge Winegardner was appointed as Washington C.H. Municipal Court judge Jan. 1, 1963 by Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, to fill the unexpired term of the late Max G. Dice.

Previous to this appointment, Judge Winegardner had practiced law as an attorney in Fayette County beginning Feb. 1, 1939 and before that served as deputy commissioner in the state tax department and assistant state attorney general.

He was a Red Cross field director in Europe during World War II and also served as a regional director for the federal Civil Defense Administration for the states of Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky in 1951 and 1952.

"I've had a wonderful 13 years serving Fayette County, the city of Washington and the state of Ohio," Judge Winegardner stated. "I've seen the court's revenue grow from $45,000 when I started 13 years ago to its present $275,000. I helped create this court and am pleased to have been a part of it and I want to wish Judge Simpson the best of luck in taking over in my place."

DISAPPOINTMENT undoubtedly made the trip from Cleveland back to Bainbridge just a little bit longer than usual for John Mick who participated in the finals of the Buckeye 1,000 drawing Tuesday evening.

Mick was the first person eliminated in the countdown to the $1,000-a-month winner. . . However, the $1,000 he earned for his efforts will certainly help curb his melancholy — as will the fact that the top prize was won by a Michigan man rather than a Cleveland resident. . .

Court turns down state tower suit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court today let stand a lower court ruling that the new State Office Tower was not built with tax money, a key question in a taxpayer's lawsuit contending that more than $903,000 was wasted during construction.

The lower courts refused to hear the suit, saying taxpayers had no interest in the cost of construction. The Supreme Court's decision today bars further action in the suit.

The case is a lawsuit by Nancy Ann Andrews of Columbus on behalf of Ohio taxpayers. It contends that members of the Ohio Building Authority allowed an electrical contractor to back out of his contract.

She argued that the OBA without authorization let Gustaf Hirsch Inc. withdraw a $3.64 million bid for wiring the tower because the company made an error in computing its bid.

The OBA then gave the contract to Hatfield Electric Co. for $4.55 million, or $903,000 more than the original contract.

But the suit was never decided on its merits. The Franklin County Common Pleas Court said the plaintiff "had no special interest" in the cost of construction.

The tower was financed by loans from the Workmen's Compensation Fund. The loans are being repaid from "rent" charged the state agencies using it. The "rent" money comes from appropriations of tax money.

But the lower courts refused to consider the indirect use of tax money, saying that "the construction of the new State Office Building was not as the result of the expenditure of taxpayers' monies or public funds and,

President stops in Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Ford arrived today for a 19-hour overnight stay in Indonesia, which the U. S. government regards as the central element in Southeast Asian stability following the Communist conquest of Indochina.

President Suharto and his wife greeted the American president and his wife and daughter as they stepped from Air Force One into a light drizzle and temperature in the 80s. It had been clear and near freezing when the Fords left Peking nearly eight hours before.

The Indonesian airport welcome included a 21-gun salute, a canopied platform to keep the rain off, 400 honor guards and 400 journalists. But the airport was closed to the public, and there was a heavy guard of police and troops with automatic weapons.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told reporters accompanying the President the visit would be a "review of our relationship and the future of Southeast Asia, in which Indonesia is a key country."

Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik described the President's stay as a "working" visit and not just a courtesy call. But American spokesmen said no major issues required top-level attention. The two presidents met last in July, at Camp David, Md., during a visit by Suharto to the United States.

One subject they were certain to discuss this time was U.S. military and economic aid to Indonesia. Ford has asked Congress to approve a total of $42.5 million worth for the coming year. But a senior American official said, "That's a minor problem. It will be handled on the aide level."

The official said Indonesia, the largest and most populous country in Southeast Asia, is "of great consequence" as it and the other four members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations — Malaysia, Singapore, The Philippines and Thailand — try to organize themselves into a political, economic and "possibly a security grouping."

The President also was expected to give Suharto an account of his visit to China, with which Indonesia does not have diplomatic relations.

Informed sources said the Indonesians would express their support of the two pro-Indonesian factions in Portuguese Timor and their opposition to the leftist Fretilin movement which declared the island colony independent a week ago and proclaimed the Democratic Republic of East Timor.

The western half of Timor is Indonesian territory, and most observers expect Indonesia to absorb the rest of the island eventually. Fretilin sent two cables to Ford this week, asking him to intercede with Suharto on its behalf, but he and Kissinger were expected to ignore the messages if they ever got them.

accordingly, would not be the subject of a taxpayers' action."

The 10th District Court of Appeals affirmed that ruling on a 2-1 decision, with the majority saying that the taxpayers had not "shown any special interest in the expenditure of these funds."

But the minority opinion said the evidence showed clearly that "the general taxpayers are the persons that will bear the burden of higher costs of the state office building..."

"The general taxpayer on behalf of his class is the only person who has a special interest to raise such a challenge in this case," the minority said.

In asking for Supreme Court review, the plaintiffs said that the lower courts' opinions would allow government to act without accountability to the public by simply juggling funds between accounts.

"If a taxpayer cannot maintain this action, then governmental bureaucracy has no control and will continue to see million dollar decisions made in 15 minutes of consideration by people who are not responsible to the electorate," the appeal said.

porting to show a healthy profit picture for Ohio utilities, particularly electric companies.

"I believe that utilities are entitled to make a fair profit, he said. "I do not believe they should be allowed to make an unconsonable profit."

As he concluded his testimony, Metzenbaum gestured toward lobbyists in the committee room and cautioned the lawmakers: "You're going to have a hell of a time getting through all those guys out there. They're rough and they've been very successful over the years."

The utility representatives, most of whom want to retain RCN, will get their chance to testify next week.

Metzenbaum told a newsmen after the hearing that he had serious doubts as to whether the repeal will pass both houses before the 111th General Assembly, finishes business next spring.

The bill under consideration, sponsored by Rep. Dennis J. Wojtanowski, D-74 Willoughby Hills, would replace RCN with a formula basing a utility's valuation on actual cost incurred in providing service.

PUCO commissioner David Sweet said the regulatory commission should be required, as part of the bill, to decide rate cases within nine months. When PUCO failed to meet that deadline, he said the utility awaiting action could go ahead and impose the rate increase.

Ceremonial banners decorated the streets to welcome the American visitors, and curbs along the main boulevard were given a fresh coat of whitewash. The governor of Jakarta ordered the national flag flown from sunup to sundown today and Saturday.

Ford's schedule in Jakarta included a banquet tonight and a two-hour meeting with Suharto on Saturday before leaving for Manila shortly before noon. Saturday night will be spent with President and Mrs. Ferdinand E. Marcos, and the Fords return to Washington Sunday.

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch government showed no signs today of yielding to demands of South Moluccan nationalists holding more than 60 hostages in the Indonesian consulate in Amsterdam and aboard a stranded train in northern Holland.

More than 150 police surrounded the consulate in which six terrorists held an estimated 30 captives, including 11 children. Sharpshooters were perched on buildings around the consulate as the siege entered its second day.

At Beilen, 90 miles to the north, 600 troops and 45 armored cars reinforced police and troops surrounding a four-coach local train in which five terrorists held 38 hostages. The gunmen have killed three hostages since hijacking the train Tuesday.

to renew old acquaintances in addition to the new faces.

Most of those who were weary of the competitive atmosphere created by the growth in Washington C.H. are now glad that it has occurred, Kilian believes. He says many of the consumer dollars which once flowed to Columbus or other metropolitan areas now stays in Fayette County because of the diversity of products which can be obtained locally.

When growth is well planned and selectively fostered, it can be a blessing to the community. However, growth without guidance can be a liability, he cautioned.

Kilian said he is not yet acquainted with the needs of the community. That will take several months, he said. He added that the residents of the area through service clubs, organizations, and the membership of the Chamber are ultimately the ones who outline the direction a local Chamber will travel.

He added that his first collective meeting with Chamber members will be next week. The executive board meets Monday and the full board will convene Thursday. Each meeting will be held at 8 a.m. in the Chamber office. These meetings will offer the first opportunity for the new executive to get a "feel" for the Chamber's priorities.

After a brief look at the city and its facilities, it would appear that construction of a public swimming pool would be high on the priority list, he noted.

"Cooperation is vital to any community. With it, anything can be accomplished; without it, little if any constructive action can result," he stressed. Establishing open lines of communication is the cornerstone of cooperation, and it is to this end that Kilian will devote most of his efforts in the immediate future.

Stock list takes dip

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today, continuing to struggle against concern over the outlook for the economic recovery and interest rates.

The noon Dow Jones aveage of 30 industrials was down 1.97 at 827.14, and losers took a slight lead over gainers after trailing earlier on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market seemed to draw a bit of encouragement at the opening from the government's report that the unemployment rate had dropped to 8.3 per cent in November from 8.6 the month before. But the rally attempt that greeted the news proved weak, and prices were headed lower again by midmorning.

Greyhound Corp. was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/4 at 12 3/4. A 100,000-share block of the stock traded at that price.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped .13 to 46.22. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index stood unchanged at 82.77.

'Pepsi connection' in Chilean coup?

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. efforts to overthrow Chile's Salvador Allende, which one senator has called the Nixon administration's Bay of Pigs, may have been triggered by a "Pepsi connection," according to evidence before the Senate intelligence committee.

Testimony taken both in private and at Thursday's public committee hearing shows that on Sept. 15, 1970, Donald Kendall, president of Pepsi Cola and a close personal friend of President Richard M. Nixon, arranged a meeting in Washington among Henry A. Kissinger, then the president's national security adviser, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Augustin Edwards, publisher of Chile's leading newspaper, El Mercurio.

According to Edward Korry, U.S. ambassador to Chile at the time, Edwards also was the principal bottler of Pepsi Cola in Chile.

The evidence shows Nixon called a meeting later that day of Kissinger, Mitchell and then CIA Director Richard M. Helms at which he instructed the CIA to foment a military coup against Allende, who was on the verge of becoming Chile's first Marxist president.

Helms told the committee last July in secret testimony which was made public as part of the committee's assassination report, "I have this impression that the President called this meeting ... because of Edwards' presence in Washington and what he heard from Kendall about what Edwards was saying about conditions in Chile."

Helms added that he had met privately with Edwards at a Washington hotel, again at Kendall's request, to interview him about Chile.

Both Korry and committee staff members discounted the possibility that Nixon may have ordered U.S. intervention in an effort to save Pepsi Cola's investments in Chile from nationalization by Allende. By all accounts, Pepsi Cola's financial stake in Chile was minimal, especially compared with such corporations as ITT and the various U.S. firms which controlled 80 per cent of Chile's copper production.

No one could say for sure whether Edwards gained his audiences with Kissinger, Mitchell and Helms because of his business association with Kendall or because he was publisher of El Mercurio, which the committee staff said served as "a major propaganda channel" for the CIA.

According to Korry, that business association later became even closer when Edwards became international vice president for Pepsi Cola.

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I am writing in regard to recent articles in the "Letters to Editor". I've been reading and trying to keep up with the moods of the parents of Washington C.H.

In the last few weeks, there has been quite a controversy over the fact of Mr. Chakeres' Drive In showing nothing but filthy and ungodly movies. These letters stated they want to build a fence to protect their children from watching such movies as they drive past.

This is all well and good. Now, I would like to raise a question to those same parents and all of the other parents of Washington C.H.

Each Saturday afternoon in downtown Washington C.H., the Jaycees and Community Education sponsor a children's movie with a cartoon program. Why is there only an average of 50 kids in attendance each week?

I cannot explain it. The people keep harping for something and then when it is sponsored and available, the people do not support it.

This project has been going since October 4th. We have had an average attendance of 50. Why? Is the starting time of 12:30 p.m. a bad time slot? Will the cartoon-movie be supported at a different time? Is the price of $1 per child too much for a good decent movie plus cartoons? They are being held in the Washington Middle School Auditorium. Is the location wrong?

We, as Jaycees, have heard very few comments from parents concerning the movies. We would like to hear from you. We, as Jaycees, are presenting this project as a community project, but the community is not supporting it. We would like to continue with this project, but right now it looks like it is in very serious trouble. Help bail it out! Send your kids to the movies on Saturday!

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

With the present controversy concerning the showing of "X" rated movies at the drive-in theater, we cannot understand why the people of Fayette County have failed to support the Jaycee's Saturday Afternoon Movies. The Jaycees gave all of Fayette County a chance to attend some fine family entertainment at a reasonable price.

As it stands now, the Jaycees will be going out of the movie business within three weeks. For the past seven Saturdays, the Jaycees have offered an alternative to the "X" rated movies. All the Jaycees are hoping to do is break even on the cost of the films, but without public support, even this has not been realized. We offered a choice but not many took advantage of it.

If it had been shown to the owner of the drive-in that people would attend "G" rated movies, he might have shown more "G's" and less "X's"

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I am writing in regards to the letter written to the editor of the Record-Herald in the Wednesday, November 26 issue.

I would like to retract a statement made by Milton Rayburn concerning the sewer system project for Bloomingburg. Mr. Rayburn is very badly misinformed or else he has a very poor sense of humor. I would like to take this opportunity to set the record straight by letting the people of Bloomingburg know how I feel in this matter. In 1968 when the cost of the project was at a reasonable price I would have supported it, but now it has risen to such a ridiculous sum, that I feel the people cannot afford this but I say "put it to vote" and let the people have what they want. As of now, I have been unable to locate Mr. Rayburn so if he exists, I would like for him to contact me concerning this matter.

Earlier this year we made a survey and we found four people out of 225 in favor of supporting this project.

Opinion And Comment

Communication comes first

The President's wife offered an interesting after-comment, the other day, on the hullabaloo created by her widely publicized remarks concerning her children. What she said, in a letter to the Los Angeles Times commending it for its editorial, "Betty Ford: No Silent Partner," is of general interest.

Mrs. Ford, it will be remembered, had put forward some unexpectedly candid - some would say highly unorthodox - views on such subjects as marijuana and pre-marital sex. This resulted in both praise for her frankness and censure for supposedly undermining the nation's moral fibre. The President's wife said this in her recent letter to the Times:

"I believe that parents have an obligation to help their children find the enduring values that have strengthened and sustained our society. But before values can be transmitted, communication must take place. If my remarks, even when misinterpreted or misunderstood, stimulated family discussion, then there may still be some lasting value to the furor of recent months."

We share Mrs. Ford's belief in this regard. Some may have found her disquietingly outspoken on subjects a President's wife is not usually expected to discuss. We found her comments refreshing, though we did not agree with all she said. Above all we concur in her statement that "before values can be transmitted, communication must take place." Hush-hush is of no value at all.

THESE DAYS . . . By John Chamberlain

What the stones say

MEGIDDO, ISRAEL (KFS) — Going around Palestine on an archaeological jaunt is a sobering experience. The brutal reality, derived from observing excavation after excavation, is that if you seek to build a homeland in a natural crossroads area you must combine diplomatic finesse with strategic and tactical military sharpness of a most uncommon order. Geography, in a land open to two-front wars within a narrow confine, isn't going to help you.

The Hebrews of Biblical times had to balance between Babylonians and Egyptians. Here at the tell, or artificial mound, of Megiddo, a most strategic site, the excavators have uncovered the remains of 20 historical periods spanning five millennia. The surge of armies along the south-north coastal route of ancient Palestine, where it reached a branching point to the East, was so incessant that the New Testament Book of Revelation marked Megiddo - or Armageddon - as the likely spot of the last great battle of the world.

It could very well prove to be such if a new converging invasion of Israel from south and north should touch off an atomic confrontation between the great nuclear powers. It's a frightening thought because it is not in the least farfetched.

What one sees above the present level of digging in Megiddo is, supposedly, the fortified "chariot city" of King Solomon, built in the 10th century B.C. True enough, the latest quarrel between archaeologists involves an analytical claim that horses could not have moved within the narrow purview of what is called "Solomon's stables." But whatever the value of the anti-horse claim, this was Hebrew territory in the great days of the kings.

THE LONG HAUL

It is once again Israeli territory after a long lapse. But, Lord! What struggles have come and gone in the two millennia of the so-called Christian Era. First the Romans came, bringing their marble to Jerusalem and Caesarea to build new walls and aqueducts on top of First and Second Temple period local limestone. The Byzantines inherited the land when Rome withdrew. In the 8th century the lean desert warriors from Arabia, armed with Mohammed's promise of an instantaneous heaven for any Moslem killed in battle, drove out the Byzantines and subdued the few remaining quarters of Jews who had not gone west with the Diaspora.

The lesson of the stones is that the Moslems were themselves displaced as rulers before many centuries has passed. The Crusaders put their archaeological mark on the land, particularly at their great port city of Acre just across the bay from what is now Israel's big oil depot at Haifa. Saladin, a Moslem military genius, pushed the Crusaders out, but they came back.

After them came Egyptian Mamelukes. Then, for a centuries-long epoch, the Ottoman Turks took over, capping the Byzantine, Arab and Crusader stone work with new parapets of their own. The British, who defeated the Turks in World War I, disdained fortifications, which means that the Turkish legacy is the last to be seen in the excavators' "digs."

NO PURITY

With so many conquerors coming and going, it was hardly a purely Palestinian Arab Palestine that was mandated to the British. Actually, Jewish scholars had remained in the Galilee throughout all the millennia. And, while one big stream of Jewish emigration from pogrom-ridden eastern Europe converged on Ellis Island in New York harbor in the late 19th century, another stream moved to so-called Eretz Israel, the land which had finally been lost to the Romans when Masada, the mountain-top fortress of the Zealots, was captured after a two-year siege in 70 A.D.

The emigration from eastern Europe to Israel, which culminated in the uncontested purchase of much coastal and Galilean wasteland, was fully as peaceful as the "invasion" of New York by the founders of the Jewish needle trade unions. All of which justifies the presence in post-British, post-Turkish Palestine of David Ben-Gurion, Golda Meir and other founders of modern Israel. They are the Palestine analogues of the International Ladies Garment Workers' David Dubinsky and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Sidney Hillman, who surely had a right to freedom in New Deal America.

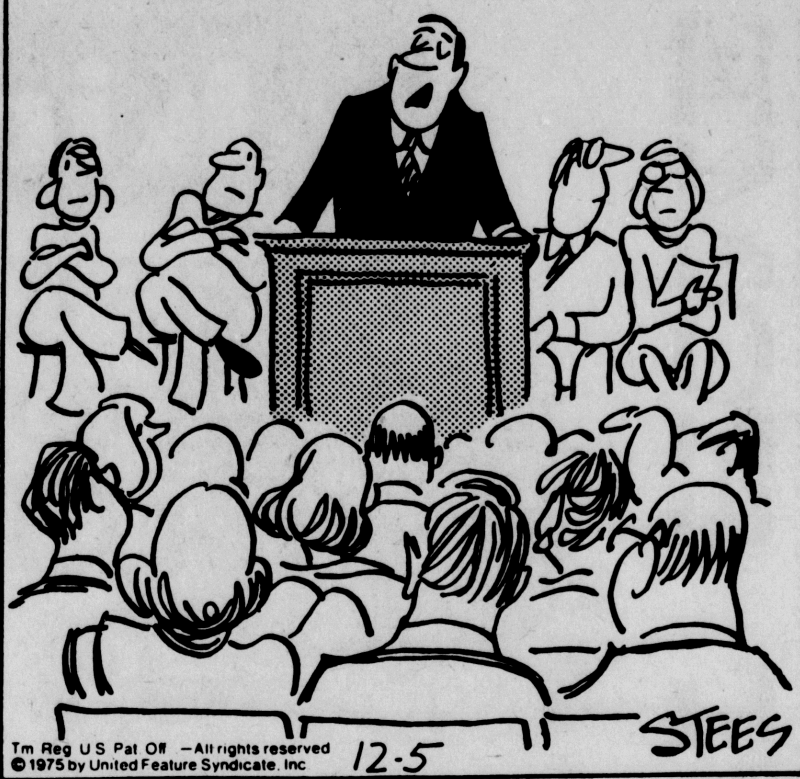

The lesson of the excavators is that Palestine belongs to whoever has managed to carve out a niche in a natural crossroads area. Abstract justice would make room for both Palestinians and Israelis. But justice must also recognize geographical reality. To defend a crossroads, the Israelis need both arms and political guarantees.

Glenn learns political dialogue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After his first year in Congress, Sen. John H. Glenn is showing signs of giving in to whatever it is that makes Washington politicians talk so much.

Ohio's freshman senator admitted it in a Columbus news conference when he took nearly five minutes to answer a reporter's question. He apologized. "It's getting to me," he grinned, adding that "you can't stop to say hello in Washington in less than five minutes."

But if the former astronaut is getting a little wordy, he also indicates he is catching on to the workings of the bureaucracy, including the art of compromise.

Glenn explained at length the difficulty he encountered as a conferee on the new federal energy bill, which he predicted President Ford would sign despite "tremendous pressures for a veto."

He said the administration had a lot of input in the legislation and that "we had one meeting after another, and went from office to office before we finally got an agreement."

The senator's obvious satisfaction over the Senate-House compromise is attributable in part to the fact it embodies, to a degree, the fulfillment of a 1974 campaign pledge to help give the country "a national energy policy."

And it came at a time when Glenn's national political stock received a boost from polls showing his popularity higher than any of the announced contenders for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

How did Glenn feel about the polls after only about a year in his first elective office? "Naturally, I was gratified," he said, but added "I'll say what I've said before. I'm not running for anything, but I'm not running from it either."

However, the senator at the same time said he is reconsidering the possibility of running as a favorite son presidential candidate in Ohio's June primary. But if he did so, he said, it would represent an attempt to give Ohio a better organized delegation to the convention next summer in New York City and not to further any presidential ambitions of his own.

Glenn and others have said repeatedly that they want to prevent a recurrence of the fractional voting and general confusion that marked Ohio's participation in the 1972 convention at Miami Beach before a nationwide television audience.

In response to specific questions, the senator refused "to give a blank check" and promise his support for the Democratic nominee no matter who it might turn out to be. At the same time, he refused to rule out the possibility that he could support Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace despite his obvious philosophical differences with the southerner.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Seek shrink for friend's abusive father

DEAR ABBY: I need advice badly and have no one to talk to.

My girl friend told me that from the age of 10 until she was 15, her father continuously molested her every chance he got when no one was home.

She never told anyone about this because he threatened to kill her if she did.

The problem is that there are still seven younger girls at home, and she is afraid he will do the same to them.

What can be done to make her father seek help without others finding out? Also they don't have much money in case he needs psychiatric treatment.

She doesn't want revenge, and she doesn't want the police to lock him up because her mother needs his paycheck badly.

I told her to threaten to call the police if he molests any of the other girls. Do you think that would work? He is a strict father, and all his children fear him.

HELPING A FRIEND

DEAR HELPING: Tell your friend that she should confide her fears to a clergyman, doctor, teacher, relative or some other responsible adult. Assure her that her father is a very sick man and if he doesn't get help immediately, the consequences could be tragic.

And please write again and let me know what has happened. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged unattached gentleman who enjoys being well-dressed and well-groomed. I am well-educated and have good manners. I am fully employed in a position that pays a modest salary.

For the last year, I have been the constant escort of a well-to-do widow who is somewhat older than I am. She foots the bills for dining out and attending the theater, symphony, concerts and opera, which we both love. (I could never afford it.)

The talk around town that she is "keeping" me is totally untrue. She has never given me one penny or paid any of my bills.

Would you call me a "gigolo"? And do you see anything wrong with this arrangement? There is no romantic involvement.

TALKED ABOUT

DEAR TALKED: A "gigolo" is a man who is supported by a woman. You're not. I see nothing wrong with the arrangement. In fact, I think it's good for both of you, and as such, I'd tune out the talk.

DEAR ABBY: My son left his wife and children for another woman.

I have always had a very warm relationship with my daughter-in-law. She is a fine person, and I still love her. Besides, being friendly with her makes it easier for me to see my grandchildren, whom I adore.

My son has told me in no uncertain terms that he considers it highly "unethical" for me to maintain a close friendship with his estranged wife.

Is there a code of ethics on this? I'll continue the friendship with her unless you say I'm wrong.

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD: Continue the friendship. The unethical one is your son.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Dec. 5, the 339th day of 1975. There are 26 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1933, prohibition ended in the U.S. as Utah became the 36th state to ratify the 21st constitutional amendment, repealing the 18th.

On this date: In 1492, Columbus discovered the West Indian island of Santo Domingo. In 1782, the eighth American president, Martin Van Buren, was born in Kinderhook, New York.

In 1848, President James Polk announced that gold had been discovered in California. The gold rush of '49 followed.

In 1918, in World War I, German naval forces blockaded the Baltic Sea. In 1934, 66 persons were executed in Russia after purge trials.

In 1962, the United States and the Soviet Union agreed to cooperate in peaceful uses of outer space.

Ten years ago: The U.S. two-man Gemini Seven spacecraft was circling the earth prior to attempting the first linkup with another craft while in orbit.

Five years ago: 11 men were arrested in Ireland in a widening search for underground terrorists accused of conspiring against the government.

One year ago: West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt conferred at the White House with President Ford and agreed to close consultations with the U.S. on oil and other economic matters.

Today's birthdays: Republican Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina is 73 years old. Former Army Secretary Stanley Resor is 58.

Thought for today: Meet success like a gentleman and disaster like a man — Lord Birkenhead, English statesman, 1872-1930.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, it was reported that British soldiers besieged in Boston in the early days of the Revolutionary War were cold and were disobeying orders and tearing down fences and houses for firewood.

Thousands expelled from towns

Jehovah's Witnesses persecuted

"Thousands of Christians are now under brutal persecution in Malawi," stated William O. Hall, presiding overseer of the Washington C.H. Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. He added that, "Starting August 19, 1975, more than 34,000 Jehovah's Witnesses from Malawi who had fled as refugees to Mozambique in 1972 because of severe persecution were forced to return to Malawi and are again experiencing brutal persecution.

All of this is because of their refusal to join a political party." Mr. Hall said he had received a report from N.H. Knorr at the Brooklyn Headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses. Knorr said that when a group of Jehovah's Witnesses arrived at the Malawi border, the Minister for the Central Region, Kumbweza Banda, greeted them: "We welcome you with both hands. You left Malawi of your own accord and now you have returned of your own accord. The Malawi Congress Party is still in power in this country. Go back to your home villages and cooperate with the party." Soon roads in the north and central regions of Malawi were filled with Jehovah's Witnesses on their way back to their original homes.

In some instances the Witnesses were allowed to enter their villages and take up occupancy of houses they had abandoned in 1972. However, in many cases, Malawi Youth Leaguers soon called to ask if they were prepared to buy political party cards. Referring to Jesus' example of political neutrality, the Witnesses refused. These refusals prompted beatings, rapings and other atrocities, and many Witnesses were summarily driven from their homes. In Kanchenche, six women were raped by several men. In Sosola village, a group of men and women, including the local member of Parliament, Elson Mulzi, seized the possessions of the Witnesses and drove them from the village.

Early in September, youths under the direction of the Kasonjola branch of the Malawi Congress Party visited homes of Jehovah's Witnesses in six villages, demanding that they buy party cards. When they refused, the youths stole all their belongings and urinated on the supply of flour that the refugees had brought with them, making it unfit for consumption.

In other locations the Witnesses were stripped naked, had their hair burned with torches, and were beaten until blood came out of their mouths and noses. This happened in Chimasongwe village in Lilongwe under the direction of the local chairman of the youth league, while the attackers were urged on by local members of the League of Malawi Women.

Because no one will accept them, many Witnesses have been forced to wander in the cities by day, and sleep in nearby forests at night. More than 4,800 fled to neighboring Zambia, but reports just received say that they were repatriated to Malawi by force, Hall said.

Dr. H. Kamuzu Banda, Life President of Malawi, recently instructed the Malawi police to round up adult Jehovah's Witnesses and put them in detention camps. The children are being left behind either to stay with relatives or fend for themselves.

The government order applies even to nursing infants. Whole congregations of Witnesses, men and women, have been rounded up and put in detention to further pressure them into buying political party membership cards, and to prevent flight from Malawi, Hall concluded.

GOOD NEWS SINGERS TO PERFORM — A concert will be presented at the Maple Grove United Methodist Church at 7 p.m., Saturday, December 6. Pictured are: (first row) Jessica Pendleton, Ginger Pendleton, Robin Rowland, Cindy Holman, Denise Beoddy, Peggy Daugherty; (second row) Gene Rowland, Jerry Holman, Jacquie Craven, Mike Daugherty, and Rodger Rowland.

The "Good News Singers" will perform at the Maple Grove United Methodist Church, near Dogtown, on Saturday, Dec. 6. A Christmas concert will be presented at 7 p.m., and will feature the singing talents of the thirteen members accompanied by guitar and piano. The group was formed about a year ago, and has visited numerous churches in the area. Advisor Jacquie Craven, 2014 White Rd., is the chief organizer for the Washington C.H. singers.

Mormon school fights rules

The moral standards demanded by Brigham Young University are a rarity on the modern educational scene, and the Mormons who run the university are fighting what they consider a threat to its integrity by the federal government.

Taking such a stance of resistance is unusual for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, which traditionally has stressed civic dutifulness and compliance with governing authority. "Our justification as an institution is at stake," says the university's president, Dallin H. Oaks, a former trial attorney and law professor.

He says the new controls have appalled many church-run colleges. "What they're doing is illegal, goes beyond the act of Congress and beyond the U.S. Constitution." He notes that not in this century have Mormons raised such a challenge to government regulations.

In this case, however, they strike at "an important part of our function as a Christian teaching institution, at part of our religious philosophy," he said in an interview. "It's a fundamental matter."

Recorded message offered by Bloomingburg church

At a recently called congregational meeting of the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church, new officers were elected for 1976, and an electronic "Pastor on Call" program was initiated as a kind of Christmas present for the entire community.

When anyone calls 437-7138, a recorded message by the Rev. Donald Pendell answers the phone. The message is an attempt to "bring the church to people who can't get to church." In this fashion, the pastor is on call 24 hours a day, helping the sleepless find relaxation and the lonely to find comfort. After the one minute devotional, the caller may leave a recorded message for the minister, or a comment letting church officials know whether the project is worthwhile or not.

New officers are named

The Bloomingburg Kensington Club met with Mrs. Haskell Crockett for the annual Christmas party, luncheon, meeting and gift exchange. All were seated at the dining room table which was festively decorated for the occasion.

Mrs. William Rockhold, president of the club, read Christmas poems. Reports were presented and Mrs. Charley Hughes reported the following new officers on behalf of the nominating committee: President - Mrs. Rockhold; vice president - Mrs. Don Thornton; secretary-treasurer - Mrs. John Gibeau.

Mrs. Rockhold will be hostess for the January meeting, when the group will make calendars for the year.

Members signed holiday cards for members, and shut-ins, and each presented a holiday reading.

Present were Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Thornton, Mrs. Lawrence Garinger, Mrs. Dorothea Slager, Mrs. Mary Haines, Mrs. Joe Elliott, Mrs. Rockhold, Mrs. Jean Brown, the hostess and Mrs. Ray Baughn, a guest.

'Open house' is planned

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Souther of Camp Grove Rd., will be honored at 'open house' from 2 until 5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 14, at their home. This will be the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Souther.

Hosts for the occasion will be their children, the Misses Marilyn, Tonda and Tammy Souther, and their sons, Tom, DeWayne and Michael, and their five grandchildren.

Progress Club

A delicious holiday dinner, with all the trimmings, was enjoyed by 18 Progress Club members, and one guest, Mrs. Delbert Marshall, in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Spahr. The Jeffersonville Progress Club held its annual Christmas festivities early this year, but so much gaiety, cheerfulness and sharing was never enjoyed more.

After the dinner, Mrs. John Sheeley opened the meeting with a poem appropriate for the season, "The Old Things Are Best" by Peter Marshall. All answered roll call by giving a Christmas thought. With Mrs. Spahr at the organ and Mrs. Marshall at the piano, Christmas carols were sung.

Miss Helen Fuhs read an inspiring story, "The Miracle at Derrick, Tex." This is the story of Christopher, an orphan, who at 7 years of age, left an orphanage. Because he cannot sing, it seems the chances for winning the $10,000 award given by the town's richest man to the best choral group, is nil. The story is at its best, when on the night of the contest Christopher sang his sweetest. The contest was won and the orphanage was saved.

More Christmas carols were enjoyed following the story, including "O Come All Ye Faithful" and "Silent Night, Holy Night," climaxed by a duet, "Jesu Bambino." Following the gift exchange, everyone was served a dessert course and a social hour followed.

Mrs. Dale Orihood was also one of the guests honoring Mrs. Dorothy Wallace of 411 N. North St., at a recent birthday party.

GRAHAM Nut Loaf (top) and Christmas Bread (below) are easily made. Both start with frozen bread dough.

Christmas Breads

Use frozen bread dough to simplify holiday baking

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

WHEN it comes to baking Christmas breads, cheat a little and take the easy way out. Instead of starting from scratch, start with ready-to-use convenient frozen bread dough, because it's been prepared and kneaded before freezing (and kneading is what usually throws neophyte bakers) all that remains for you to do is thaw the dough, make it festive and fancy, then let it rise. That's a cinch, as today's recipes indicate. Bake one or all of these breads and stand by to get compliments aplenty when you serve them.

Christmas bread is a delightful fruit-filled coffeecake topped with confectioners' sugar frosting.

CHRISTMAS BREAD

1 loaf frozen white bread dough
1-3rd cup powdered sugar
3 tablespoons butter or margarine.
softened
1/2 cup chopped walnuts, almonds or pecans
1/4 cup chopped candied cherries
1/4 cup seedless raisins
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
Confectioners' Sugar Frosting

Thaw and soften dough.
In small mixing bowl, cream together powdered sugar and butter. Mix in nuts, cherries, raisins, and lemon extract. Set aside.

Roll dough into a 14x8-inch rectangle. Spread filling to within 1 inch of edge. Beginning from the longest side, roll dough in jelly roll fashion; pinch to seal seam.

Place on greased baking sheet with seam side down. Cut slashes 1 inch apart and 2-3rds of the way through roll. Pull slices out alternately to the right and to the left. Turn each slice on its side to show the filling.

Cover; let rise until doubled in size. Bake at 350 F. for 30 to 40 minutes or until done. Cool on wire rack. Frost with Confectioners' Sugar Frosting (the recipe follows) and garnish with red or green cherries.

Makes 12 servings (1 - 1 1/2-inch slice per serving).

CONFECTIONERS' SUGAR FROSTING

3/4 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
3 teaspoons lukewarm water
Dash of vanilla extract
Mix confectioners' sugar with lukewarm water and a dash of vanilla extract.

Note: Frost baked goods while still warm.
Individual pieces of dough that have been coated with a graham cracker and nut mixture, then layered in a bundt pan, give this holiday loaf its shape:

GRAHAM NUT LOAF

2 loafs frozen bread dough (any combination of white, cinnamon, or raisin)
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup finely crumbled graham crackers

1 cup chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
Confectioners' Sugar Frosting

Thaw and soften dough. Generously grease and flour a 10-inch bundt pan or tube pan. Melt butter in small skillet; set aside.
Combine graham cracker crumbs, walnuts, sugar and cinnamon. Place crumb-mixture on large plate.

Divide each loaf into 32 pieces about the size of a small walnut. Dip each piece into melted butter, then coat with crumb mixture. Place coated pieces close together in bundt pan or tube pan;

there will be 2 layers.

Cover; let rise until doubled in size. Bake at 375 F. for 35 to 40 minutes or until done. Cool in pan for 5 minutes before turning out onto a wire rack.

Drizzle the loaf with Confectioners' Sugar Frosting (see preceding recipe). Makes 12 to 14 servings.

Kulich, a traditional Christmas cake, gets its unusual shape from its baking pan, an empty 1-pound coffee can:

KULICH

1 loaf frozen white bread dough
1/4 cup chopped almonds
1/4 cup seedless raisins
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 1/2 cups confectioners' sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel

Thaw and soften dough. Cut into 8 slices; let rise slightly — should not double in size.

Combine almonds, raisins and lemon peel. Divide in half, and use one half for each coffee can loaf.

Place one slice of dough into the bottom of a greased 1-pound coffee can. Sprinkle with 1-3rd of almond mixture. Add another slice of dough; 1-3rd of almond mixture and repeat once more. Add a fourth slice of dough.

In another coffee can, repeat above with remaining dough and almond mixture.

Cover; let rise until doubled in size. Bake at 375 F. for 25 minutes or until done. Cool on wire racks.

Prepare glaze by combining confectioners' sugar, water, lemon juice and peel; stir until smooth. Drizzle over rounded top of each loaf and sprinkle with red and green sugar crystals.

'Church Day' is observed at Grace United Methodist

The December 'Church Day' at Grace United Methodist Church was hosted by Circle 10 with a covered dish luncheon honoring the Circle leaders. A large attendance was seated at gaily decorated tables in keeping with the Christmas season as each circle honored its leader.

In the absence of Mrs. Edmond Woodmansee, president, Mrs. Ralph Child conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Child paid a tribute to Mrs. Woodmansee for her many contributions to the United Methodist Women. Every U.M.W. officer and circle leader received a lovely personal gift from Mrs. Woodmansee. In keeping with the Christmas season Mrs. Child read from Peter Marshall's "Let's Keep Christmas." Reports were given. The final total from the talent jars was $1866.

A most enjoyable program of Christmas music was given by the Harmony Singers from Washington C.H. Senior High School under the direction of Mrs. Wayne King. They sang many traditional Christmas songs that added greatly to the holiday atmosphere.

Mrs. Walter Haines announced that the new U.M.W. president will be Mrs.

Kenneth Warner. Mrs. Ralph Child honored Mrs. Allen Puffenberger, Mrs. Heber Deere, Mrs. Walter Haines and Mrs. Donna Wagner with special membership certificates and pins for their years of service to the United Methodist Women.

Mrs. Bernard Eiselstein presented devotions by reading Jim Bishop's "The Long Journey of Mary and Joseph." The meeting was closed with prayer.

Circle 2 names new leader

Circle 2 of First Presbyterian Church met in Persinger Hall Wednesday for the annual covered dish luncheon and Christmas program. Twenty three members and four guests were present. Toys and money for the local Clothing Center and food for the Christmas baskets were collected. Mrs. Gerald Wheat gave the invocation. Mrs. Grove Davis and Mrs. Frank Dellinger were co-hostess.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Grover Davis, circle leader, opened the meeting with the singing of Christmas carols. Mrs. James Vorhis was introduced as the Circle leader for next year. She distributed the 1976 year-books of the Women's Association. Mrs. Emma Kelley gave a report on cards and visits and cards were signed for the shut-ins.

Mrs. Orville Jenkins gave the devotions on the Christmas Story. Mrs. Richard Rankin narrated slides of early homes of Fayette County.

The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Homemakers topic 'Cookbooks'

Mrs. Kenneth Bush was hostess when the Concord Homemakers met in her home for a covered dish luncheon. Mrs. Robert Case gave the invocation, and conducted the meeting which followed. She read the poem "Christmas" and each member named something she had made for Christmas in response to roll call.

Various reports were made and it was announced that the next meeting will be held Jan. 29, with hostesses being Mrs. Lorain Morter, Mrs. Walter Parrett and Mrs. Walter Sollars.

Mrs. Robert Pero gave an interesting program old cook books. She also brought several cookbooks for the members to view and share recipes. She told the group that the local Carnegie Library also had a good selection.

Gamma CCL

Gamma Child Conservation League met Wednesday evening in the beautifully decorated home of Mrs. Walter Karnes for the annual Christmas party. Mrs. Donald Early, president, conducted a brief meeting, when a Christmas message was read from the state CCL president, and a report on the plans for the Spring CCL Conference to be held April 3 in Greene County.

The remainder of the evening was spent visiting and playing 'dub's bridge' with awards being presented to Mrs. Jack Flax and Mrs. Clark Thompson.

At the closing, a gift exchange took place and the hostess served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Philip Ford.

Each member brought a gift to be given to a child at Christmas through the Church Women United.

NEW YORK (AP) — This Sunday, CBS resumes its award-winning "60 Minutes" newsmagazine program, but in the "family hour" slot the low-rated "Three for the Road" series held before it was canceled.

For the last three years, "60 Minutes" has appeared on Sunday an hour earlier, at 6 p.m. EST, except during the summers, when it had different starting times, and during the pro football season, when it has left the air because football would overlap into its time period.

It now faces two prime evening time shows, NBC's veteran Walt Disney series and ABC's new "Swiss Family Robinson."

Excluding the past three summers, when it appeared each week in prime time, this will be the first season "60 Minutes" has had a weekly broadcast in prime time since it began in September 1968.

If it does well in its new time period, it'll stay there on a year-round basis, says Lee Currin, CBS' programming chief.

Why is it now starting at 7 p.m. EST? Why didn't CBS start it again in its old 6 p.m. EST time slot and follow it with a new family entertainment series?

There are a couple of reasons for the change, Currin says.

One is that the Federal Communications Commission this season let the networks start their Sunday prime time programs a half hour earlier — at 7 p.m. EST — than in past years.

But they must fill their first hour of prime time on Sundays with news or public affairs programs or shows "of special appeal to children under 12," says Currin.

Letting the networks start their prime-time programs a half-hour earlier on Sundays could reduce by 30 minutes the amount of local program for network affiliates.

But the affiliates aren't obligated to broadcast network shows, and in the case of "Three for the Road" CBS says only about 80 per cent of its affiliates ran the program when CBS aired it.

The others filled the time with their own programming during the football season at the end of CBS football telecasts on Sundays.

At the end of the regular pro football season, the crunch on local station time would have worsened early Sunday night had CBS decided to air "60 Minutes" at 6 p.m. EST and follow that at 7 p.m. with a family entertainment program.

When this season began, Currin said, the stations felt that "if we had kept '60 Minutes' at 6 to 7 p.m., they wouldn't have had any local time (after the football season) and they wouldn't clear 'Three for the Road' for that reason."

The solution, he said, seemed to be to put "60 Minutes" on in the first hour of Sunday prime time after the football season because more CBS affiliates will clear time for it, it's a good adult alternative to the other networks' family entertainment programs and because it's done "surprisingly well" in its old Sunday time slot.

If it doesn't do well in its new time period, he said, CBS may move it back to its old time on Sundays "or perhaps we'll reopen the question of maybe moving it back to 5:30 p.m. (EST) on Sundays."

Urge lottery supervision

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Sen. David L. Headley of Barberton has proposed that the Ohio Lottery Commission license operators of charitable Bingo games, rather than creating a new board for Bingo.

The Democrat introduced a bill that would limit Bingo operators to 15 per cent of gross receipts for operating and administrative expenses. It doesn't specify how much must go to charity.

The bill provides for $50 annual licenses plus quarterly reports from the operators to the commission.

Headley said he wasn't insistent that the lottery commission handle the matter but that he felt the lottery is "basically a pretty clean operation" despite the allegations of political misconduct that arose a few months ago.

Other bills before the legislature permit as much as 40 per cent of gross receipts for operating expenses and require at least 40 per cent be awarded in prizes. One drafted by Atty. Gen. William Brown but yet to be introduced requires one-third of gross receipts be given to charities, leaving the rest for prizes and costs.

Wrangle still brewing in liquor vote defeat

HILLSBORO — The wrangle over the results of the Jackson Township liquor option election is not over.

Thirty-two voters from the township have filed suit in Highland County Common Pleas Court to contest the election outcome.

Named as defendants are the members of the Highland County Board of Elections.

In November, Jackson Township residents rejected all five wet-dry issues, leaving the township dry. There were recounts on two of the issues, but the results were the same.

The proposal to allow the sale of beer for carryout was defeated, 135-133, according to the recount. The question of allowing sale of beer and liquor for off-premises consumption was defeated, 139-128, in the recount.

The suit seeks an order finding that all issues on the ballot passed due to election irregularities, or, in the alternative, a declaration that the election as held is null and void.

Specifically, the suit charges that election officials provided or made available sample ballots that do not meet the standards set up for sample ballots as established by the Ohio Revised Code.

The suit also charges that in at least one instance election officials permitted voters to be influenced by third parties as to how they should vote.

Further, according to the complaint, election officials did not require all voters to retire to voting booths to mark their ballots.

Polling officials are also charged with permitting unqualified voters to cast ballots on the issues in question. The voters are represented by a Columbus attorney and Highland County prosecuting attorney John O. Crouse will represent the board of elections.

Youth corps officer charged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Elsworth L. Brown Jr., a former officer of the Clark County Neighborhood Youth Corps, has been charged with three counts of forgery following an investigation of a check fraud scheme, authorities say.

Brown was charged following an investigation by Springfield police of checks allegedly written by him that bounced, said J. Tullis Rogers, an attorney for the Department of Administrative Services. The forged signatures on the checks were that of the head of the youth corps, Rogers said.

William Michael Skiver, director of the Appalachian Human Development and Economic Community Organization, was suspended as a result of the investigation.

The organization serves Ross, Scioto, Lawrence, Pike, Jackson, Gallia and Vinton counties with vocational training programs. It is federally funded.

Rogers said the investigation showed that Skiver had made 13 loans totaling $191,800 to the youth corps operation through Brown.

Skiver has not been charged with any violations, but was suspended from his job without pay on Oct. 8 for making unauthorized loans.

Our thing is Paint

It seems like everybody is doing his thing these days. Which is okay if the "thing" is done right. If not . . . then there's a real "hang-up" of one kind or another.

Take paint, for example. This highly specialized product is being sold by clerks in some stores who don't know which paint to recommend for the many kinds of surfaces paint is made for. Or how much paint is needed. Or what kind of brush or roller to use.

We could go on and on. But the point is . . . our "thing" is paint. And we know paint better than we know ourselves. Better (we believe) than any retailer in town.

So let's do our "thing" together the next time you paint. It's the thing to do if you want the right paint in the right amount at the right price.

ESSAY, POSTER WINNERS — Tom Mark, right, chairman of the Fayette County Board of Realtors bicentennial celebration committee, presents $50 savings bonds to winners in the poster and essay contests sponsored by the

Essay, poster winners named

The five winners of the Fayette County Board of Realtors "Uncle Sam" art and essay contest were announced Thursday.

A poster best depicting "My Impression of Uncle Sam" was selected from each of the three school divisions: elementary, junior high, and high school. Students in the latter two levels were also allowed to compete for the best written essay in each division on "What Uncle Sam Means to Me."

Submitting the winning poster for the elementary grades was Billy Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shaw, 606 E. Temple St. Susan Cowman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie D. Cowman, Rt. 4, Washington C.H., and Bobby Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson, 500 West Ford Road, won the poster and essay contests, respectively, for junior high students. Lucinda Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham, 813 Clinton Ave., won essay honors for the high school division, while Kathleen Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwards, 1067 Spring Lake Drive, produced the prize-winning poster in the high school group.

Billy Shaw is a fifth grader at Eastside Elementary School. Both Susan Cowman and Bobby Peterson are enrolled in Eber Junior High School. Susan is a seventh grader, and Bobby is an eighth grader. Lucinda Graham is a senior at Washington Senior High School, while Kathleen Edwards is a junior at Miami Trace High School.

Tom Mark, chairman of the Fayette County Board of Realtors bicentennial celebration committee, presented each of the winners with a $50 savings bond. The winning artwork and essays have already been forwarded to the Ohio Association of Realtors headquarters for state-wide judging. Winners of the state contest will be honored at the January 1976 inaugural meetings and will be presented with $100 savings bonds.

House Democrats launch campaign

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio House Democrats launched their 1976 re-election campaign Thursday night with a $100-a-plate fundraising dinner which party officials said netted about $100,000.

The scheduled speaker, U.S. Sen. Wendell H. Ford, D-Ky., was unable to attend because of commitments in Washington. But about 1,100 party loyalists, state officials and lobbyists were on hand for the "Salute to the Democratic Members of the Ohio House of Representatives."

Democrats are out to retain their 59-40 edge in the House and if possible pick up at least one additional seat which would give them the three-fifths majority required to override a veto by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Event set July 25-31

Dates scheduled for county fair

COLUMBUS — John M. Stackhouse, director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, announced today that the dates have been approved for the 1976 Fayette County Fair.

The 1976 Fayette County Fair will be held Sunday through Saturday, July 25-31.

Other fair dates approved for neighboring counties were Clinton County, August 9-14; Greene County, August 2-7; Highland County, September 7-11; Madison County, August 21-25; Pickaway County, August 1-6; and Ross County, August 9-14.

Stackhouse also noted the largest horse race stake program ever conducted by the county and independent agricultural fairs has received tentative approval. The increase in the requests for approval of harness stake races was made possible through legislation recently signed by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes. The law became effective Oct. 30. Sixty-six agricultural societies have requested funds for the conduct of filly stakes races. One and ninety-six filly stake races are scheduled to be held during the 1976 fair season. Stackhouse remarked that the horse industry is excited about the extensive interest in the filly stake races in this, their initial year.

Seventy-five agricultural fairs have again requested funds for the conduct of overnight harness racing and 71 have asked for additional funds to conduct the Ohio Colt Stake races.

Stackhouse noted that the funds available to the agricultural societies are made possible through the Ohio Fairs Fund which his department administers. The monies available in the Ohio Fairs Fund are derived from taxes on races which have pari-mutuel wagering. One half of one per cent of the wagering on harness and running races is placed in the fund.

"All 95 agricultural societies benefit from the Ohio Fairs Fund," Stackhouse said. "They each receive $2,500 annually for general operation of their fair. A large portion of the money is used to help offset expenses of the many youth activities. In my opinion," Stackhouse said, "the involvement of youth in our agricultural fairs is extremely desirable and rewarding and is perhaps the most important facet of our great Ohio fairs."

Set compromise on DP&L rates

CELINA, Ohio (AP) — Some cities in west-central Ohio have agreed to a compromise rate increase by Dayton Power & Light Co., the safety-service director here says.

Ted Gilroy, a city executive, says the utility has agreed to a 20 per cent increase for the cities of Celina, Saint Marys, New Bremen, Minster, New Knoxville, Jackson Center, Waynesfield, Lakeview, Arcanum and Yellow Springs.

Graduation slated for truck drivers

WILMINGTON — Southern State College will graduate its first class of truck driver education students in ceremonies to be held December 19 at the Patrick Henry Training Center on the north campus in Wilmington. The college assumed supervision of the program from the Great Oaks Joint Vocational School District last October.

Southern State is now the only college in Ohio that offers truck driver education. The 18 members of the first class are enrolled through Southern State's adult continuing education program.

Funded by the state through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), the program is designed primarily to serve unemployed and underemployed persons from throughout the 88 counties in Ohio. Students who successfully complete the course are eligible for employment by trucking firms in Ohio and the rest of the nation.

Ed Mason has served as the coordinator of the program since it began in January 1974. Mason is employed by Gateway Transportation Co. and is on an extended leave to supervise the program. Assisting him are three full-time instructors. They are Forest Sprague, Thomas Bish and Mike Benson. Part-time instructors are Harry Flaughter and Donald Edwards.

Certain support services come from the Teamsters Union and Cincinnati area trucking firms, which have had an interest in the program from its inception. Besides donating equipment and providing facilities for field trips, these organizations also screen applicants and assist with job placement, as well as providing personnel for safety and special cargo handling instruction. Mason said all members of the Cincinnati Motor Transportation Association contribute to program.

Of the nearly 200 students who have enrolled in the truck driver school, 153 (including three women) have been certified as eligible for employment. To qualify for the program, students must be 21 years of age, have completed the 10th grade of school and be in good health. Classes are usually held to a maximum of 25 students.

During the 10-week course, students study all aspects of tractor-trailer operation and maintenance, dividing their time between 160 hours in class and 240 hours using equipment and driving. Emphasis is placed on safety and learning to drive a great variety of equipment.

Students use seven types of diesel engines and at least three types of transmissions, including a duplex that requires shifting with two sticks. They learn to handle tandem and single-axle tractors as well as conventional and cab-over-engine sleeper tractors.

On-the-road experience involves 2,500 to 3,500 miles of driving per student. During the last four weeks of the course, students drive 12-hour shifts on routes within the state. Trailers are loaded with cement blocks to simulate cargo weight. Presently the school has six complete rigs. Three trailers and one tractor have been donated by industry; the others are leased from the

All Truck Leasing Company.

"The training is so complete," said Mason, "that many trucking firms accept our 10-week program as one year's road experience."

A new bus, recently acquired, is used to take students on field trips. Through trips to such concerns as United Parcel Service, Sohio, O.K. Trucking, Consolidated Freightways, and Complete Auto Transit, students are exposed to special package handling, tanker loading, dispatching, long-haul operation, and handling the transport of new automobiles.

The program is also used by industry for upgrading skills of their employees. Students who do not qualify for state assistance can also "buy in" to the program.

Dr. Maurice Hartle, who helped found the program when he was director of adult education at Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus, expects the transition from Great Oaks to Southern State College supervision to go smoothly. The overall scope of the training will not be affected by the change. Quality trained students will continue to be the goal.

What of the future? Mason is optimistic. Industry personnel indicate that trucking is on the upswing. The excellence of the training program has been recognized by industry, and Mason is a member of an advisory committee designed to upgrade the quality of all truck driving schools in Ohio. And he enjoys his work.

"I believe in this program," he said. "If I didn't, I wouldn't be here."

4-H roundup club

By JEANNIE ANDERSON
4-H Assistant

Babysitting projects, gifts, just the fun of creating and enjoying your own entertainment... are all good reasons to share these toymaking ideas with your 4-H'ers. Some toys, like puzzles, are plenty easy for your youngest 4-H'ers to make; while others, like cuddly squeeze toys and spicebox train require more precise craftsmanship. All can be constructed from throw-away materials and scraps, with just a few simple tools.

Cuddly squeeze toys are simple to make and handy for 4-H'ers who babysit. They can tuck a couple in their toy bags and surprise children they sit for with "special playthings". The toys are easy to stitch from soft, old terrycloth toweling, and can be stuffed with clean, discarded nylon stockings.

Free your imagination and design three-dimensional things besides dolls, like perhaps a tree, or a butterfly, or buildings or vegetables. Embroidered details are safer than buttons, which youngsters might pull loose and choke upon. 4-H'ers might use different colors of fabrics for parts like a house roof, or carrot leaves or a butterfly's body. Embroider details before cutting out pieces if using an embroidery hoop, or after assembly if stitches will cross seams.

Draw patterns on newspaper first, then cut out shapes, adding 1/2-inch seam allowance on all sides. With right sides together, stitch seams, leaving a 3-inch opening in one seam; turn right side out. Stuff until firm, but still squeeze, and hand stitch the opening. These toys are washable.

Picture puzzles are good entertainment and great teaching material for pre-schoolers and elementary schoolage kids. They encourage small-muscle control and develop visual skills.

Depending upon the picture you choose, and the number of pieces you cut, puzzles can be simple or complex.

First, select an interesting, colorful picture from a magazine, one that's significant to a friend; or paint a bold animal for a child's simple puzzle. Glue picture or painting thoroughly onto heavy cardboard or thin plywood. Cover with clear, adhesive-backed vinyl, for waterproofing. Design puzzle's overall shape and the various odd pieces. Then cut with scissors, razor-sharp knife or jigsaw. Your junior and teen leaders might help younger members with sharp tools.

When making a set of several puzzles, color code them by painting or thoroughly gluing colored paper to puzzle backs before cutting pieces. Package puzzle pieces in small boxes or large envelopes.

These are only a few of the 4-H projects that clubs can get involved in doing. 4-H offers you an opportunity to learn by doing. Why not start a 4-H club now. Call the County Extension Office (335-1150) for more information.

Two cars demolished, girl hurt in mishap

A Washington C.H. girl was injured in a traffic accident which left two cars demolished at 6:35 p.m. Thursday.

Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported cars driven by Jack A. Jackson, 19, Good Hope, and Julie A. Aills, 16, of 1218 Rawlings St., collided when Ms. Aills pulled from a driveway onto Snow Hill Road, 75 feet from Bush Road, in front of the oncoming Jackson auto. Two of Ms. Aills' passengers claimed injury from the wreck: Tommy Jones, 15, of 2642 Snow Hill Road, and Paulette Aills, 15, of 1218 Rawlings St., but only Paulette Aills was treated at Fayette Memorial Hospital. She sustained a head injury and was released. Julie Aills was cited by sheriff's deputies for failing to yield right of way.

The sheriff's department investigated a second traffic mishap

Thursday and Washington C.H. police reported four accidents.

A similar accident to the one above occurred at 5:25 p.m. Thursday, according to deputies. A car driven by Shirley O. Mayer, 46, Bloomingburg, pulled from a private driveway onto Ohio 38 in front of an oncoming auto driven by William E. Summers III, 28, Bloomingburg. The resulting collision caused the Summers auto to collide with a fence belonging to Gretchen Jefferson, Colonial Court. Summers claimed injury from the mishap, but was not treated. Both autos were moderately damaged and Ms. Mayer was charged with failure to yield right of way.

Cars driven by Guy F. Briggs, 53, of 618 Yeoman St., and John S. Schreckengust, 20, of 702 W. Market St., were involved in a rear-end collision at 8:56 p.m. Thursday at the intersection of Oakland Avenue and W. Market Street. Briggs was charged by Washington C.H. police with failing to maintain an assured clear distance ahead and damage was minor.

A car driven by Ann H. Marshall, 35, Wilmington, backed into a car driven by Timothy E. Dunlap, 17, of 1110 S. Main St., at 4:40 p.m. Thursday in McDonald's Restaurant parking lot on S. Elm Street. Police estimated damage to both autos as moderate.

A car driven by Sharon L. Chrisman, 28, of 8 Homestead Court, backed into a parked car belonging to Traverse R. Hollingsworth, 5 Sunny Drive, in the Hidy Foods parking lot on Columbus Avenue at 4:04 p.m. Thursday. Police reported slight damage.

A car belonging to James C. Wright, 505 N. North St., was struck by a hitskip driver sometime Thursday while parked in front of 626 S. Fayette St. Police stated the grill was damaged.

Set biggest act in show business

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Benny and Billy McQuire figure they are a cinch to become the biggest names in showbiz. Between them they weigh 1,460 pounds.

The 28-year-olds, listed by the Guinness Book of World Records as the world's largest twins, say they are assured of national television appearances and are planning to return to the night club circuit they left about nine years ago.

"Right now we're working on getting a pair of tuxedos to wear in our act," says Billy, at 720 the lighter of the two by 20 pounds. "It's no easy task. An average pair of everyday pants cost us about $125 to $150, and that's with a discount on material."

Judge orders eviction of record store here

A relatively new business establishment in the Washington C.H. area has been ordered out of its premises at 217 W. Court Street by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner.

The decision was rendered Thursday afternoon by Judge Winegardner on a case involving Ohio Valley Convenient Food Mart, Inc. versus Ronnie Daulton, proprietor of Rock-n- Stuff. Daulton was leasing the building adjacent to the Convenient Food Mart from them in order to operate a record shop. The lease he signed with Ohio Valley CFM, Inc. stipulated he not sell any items which would be in competition with Convenient Food Mart's merchandise and if he changed his line of merchandise from the stated "records" in the lease, approval from Convenient Mart was required.

Daulton expanded his merchandise to include pornographic magazines and drug-related paraphernalia, according to Judge Winegardner.

Ohio Valley CFM, Inc. ordered Daulton out Sept. 17 and he refused to leave. The case was then brought into small claims court and Judge Winegardner stated Thursday, "the court finds the plaintiff entitled to possession of the premises subject herein and it is therefore ordered, adjudged and decreed that the plaintiff be restored to the premises presently occupied by the defendants by Dec. 14." Judge Winegardner ordered the defendants to pay the court costs.

Daulton stated he was considering an appeal of the court decision.

Howard Jones, whose Southern California football teams won five Rose Bowl games, was born in Exello, Butler County, Ohio, and learned the gridiron game at Middletown High School.

Class A grid stars selected

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chuck Hauck, practically a one-man attack for Williamsburg, was selected today as Back of the Year in Ohio Class A high school football.

The 6-foot-1, 185-pound senior quarterback accounted for 1,805 total yards in 10 regular season games this fall.

Defensive end Dave Riedel of New Washington Buckeye Central was named the Class A Ohio Lineman of the Year and J.D. Graham of top-ranked Newark Catholic the division's state coach.

The selections were based on regular season play only and compiled with the recommendations of a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Hauck connected on 62 per cent (80 of 130) of his passes for 1,420 yards and 17 touchdowns. He also rushed for 385 yards and five touchdowns, punted for a 39.1 yard average and played cornerback on defense.

Riedel, 6-3 and 195 pounds, posted 14 sacks, three blocked punts and five fumble recoveries.

Graham has produced two mythical state champions and qualified for the postseason playoffs three times in the last three seasons. His five-year record at Newark Catholic is 45-6-0, capped by a 10-0-0 regular season mark in 1975.

Hauck was joined on the 22-man first unit by Middletown Fenwick running back Mike Harkrader, the 1974 Ohio Back of the Year. The son of Fenwick Coach Jerry Harkrader piled up 1,397 yards despite injuries in his senior season.

Two juniors made the select group. Running back Dave Myers of Carey has rolled up 1,214 yards rushing as a sophomore and 1,507 as a junior. Neal Seymour, Canal Winchester's defensive end, also landed on the No. 1 unit.

Greg Whetsel, Ridgeway Ridgemont's powerful 6-4, 220-pound senior, claimed the third running back spot. Whetsel scored 21 touchdowns and accounted for 1,261 yards in nine games. In two seasons, he had 35 touchdowns and 2,420 yards.

Forming the first team offensive line were ends Marty Polk of Cincinnati Lockland and Dennis Kessler of Carey, tackles Bill Hiler of Williamsburg and Joe Stevenson of Lowellville, guards John Brady of Newcomerstown and Russ Reynolds of Loudonville and center Greg Smith of Proctorville Fairland.

Riedel and Seymour anchored the defensive line of tackles Bob Althof of Hanoverton United and Joe Reek of Middletown Fenwick and middle guard Dennis Day of Newbury.

The linebacking corps was comprised of Clark Gilmore of Frankfort Adena, Tim Cowen of Loudonville and Mario Alemagno of Cleveland Hawken and the defensive backs were Randy Bone of Chesapeake, Roland James of Jamestown Greeneview and Dave Roth of Sandusky St. Mary.

Illinois wins, Purdue loses, in cage tilts

By The Associated Press
Two Big Ten basketball teams were on the boards Thursday night and they notched a win and a loss.

The University of Illinois slipped past Missouri-Rolla 67-65 at Urbana while Purdue fell before Rutgers 81-73 at Madison Square Garden in New York.

Rutger's Phil Sellers was high scorer with 31 points for the Scarlet Knights.

The Boilermakers jumped to a 21-12 lead with seven minutes gone in the first half. But Sellers and Mike Dabney scored 14 of the next 17 points as Rutgers tied it up 29-29 with 7½ minutes to go in the half.

Purdue took a 44-43 halftime lead with Bruce Parkinson scoring 13 points and the Boilermakers hitting 64 per cent of their shots compared with only 50 per cent for Rutgers.

Purdue tied the game three times in the second half, but Rutgers gained the lead with 10 minutes to go and held on.

Rutgers now is 2-0, while Purdue fell to 1-1.

Illinois' Rich Adams with 20 points and Nate Williams with 19 led the Fighting Illini to victory over Missouri-Rolla. Illinois was hampered by poor second-half shooting after leading 37-35 at the halfway mark.

Illinois is now 3-0 for the season, while Missouri-Rolla is 2-1.

No Big Ten teams play tonight. Saturday's action includes Ohio University at Northwestern, Purdue at WEST Virginia, Loyola at Wisconsin, Michigan State at Eastern Michigan, Michigan at Tennessee, Northeast Louisiana at Iowa, New Mexico at Illinois and North Dakota at Minnesota.

Flyers top Black Hawks

By The Associated Press
Maybe Dave Schultz wants Chicago Coach Billy Reay to get his name straight.

Schultz scored two first-period goals Thursday night to boost the Philadelphia Flyers to a 5-2 National Hockey League victory over the Black Hawks.

But Reay, whose team had tied the Flyers in their two previous meetings this season, continued to voice his low opinion of the Philadelphia winger.

"It's the first time I've seen him earn his pay," Reay said after the game. "But I'm still not worried about him."

Reay has been saying for several seasons that Schultz lacks skill and fights too much. And to add to the insult, the coach refers to Schultz as "Schwartz."

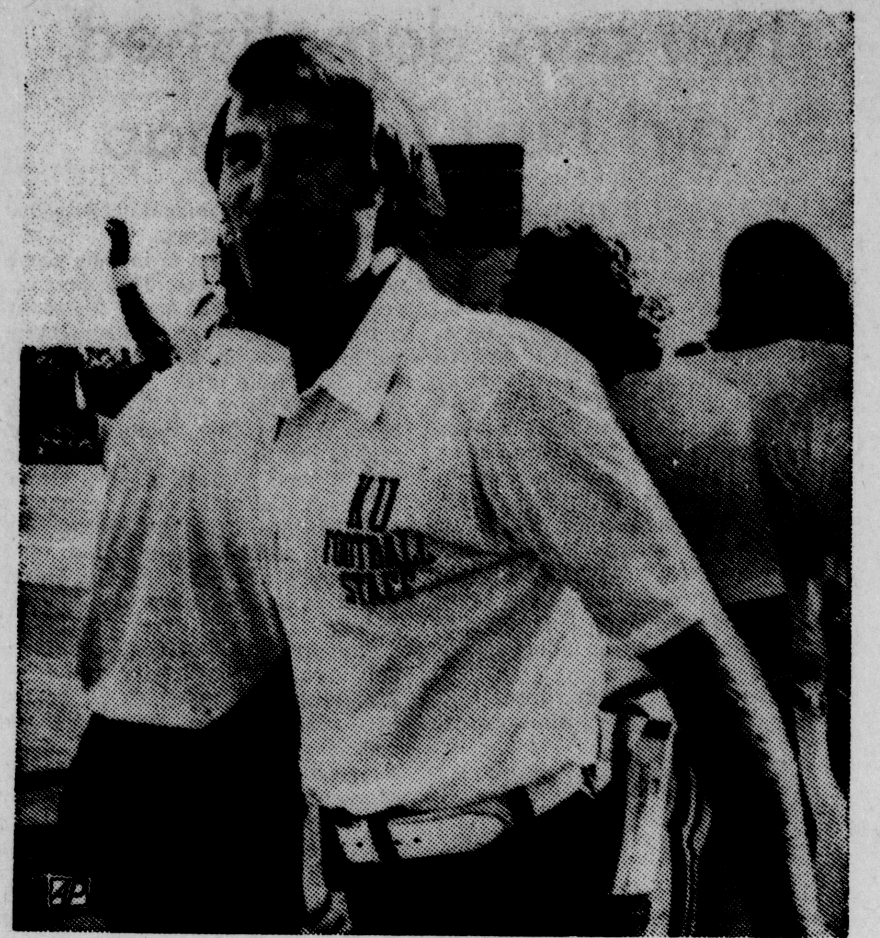

The victory shattered a 15-game unbeaten string for Chicago, and extended Philadelphia's winning streak to seven.

In other NHL games Thursday night, Montreal stopped St. Louis 4-1, Boston edged Washington 3-2, the New York Islanders crushed Pittsburgh 6-1 and the New York Rangers and Buffalo skated to a 6-6 tie.

Sir Melody winner

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Sir Melody was a two-length victor in the featured pace mile at Lebanon Raceway Thursday night and paid $88.20, $4.80 and $4.

First Morning was second, paying $6.60 and $4, and Farvel Boy, third, paid $5.20.

BIG 8 COACH OF THE YEAR — Bud Moore was named the Big Eight Conference Coach of the year in Kansas City. Kansas finished the season with a 7-4 record and will play in the Sun Bowl against Pittsburgh at El Paso, Texas.

Anderson returns to Bengals lineup

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ken Anderson will be back at quarterback Sunday when the Cincinnati Bengals try to keep their playoff hopes alive against the cellar dwelling Philadelphia Eagles in a National Football League game.

The 26-year-old Anderson has recovered from a chest injury that kept him out of last week's 23-19 triumph over Houston. Coach Paul Brown says Anderson is 100 per cent ready, but he has backup quarterback John Reaves prepared if needed.

Brown was satisfied with the job turned in by Reaves against Houston. The young man acquired from the Eagles threw two touchdown passes and completed 13 of 23 passes for 162 yards in the rain swept game.

The Bengals are 9-2, and one game behind the Pittsburgh Steelers in the American Conference Central Division. Brown's forces need a victory over Philadelphia (3-8) to remain in the running for the conference title, or at least a wild card spot in the playoffs.

Cincinnati has Pittsburgh and San Diego left after Sunday's game, and even if the Bengals should win their final three games, they would lose the conference crown to the Steelers if Pittsburgh wins Sunday over Cleveland, and on the final day of the season. The Bengals and Steelers thus would tie at 12-2, but Pittsburgh would take the title because of more victories within the conference.

Brown has indicated that his two other first string cripples, defensive back Lamar Parrish and middle linebacker Jim LeClair probably will be able to play against the Eagles.

Cincinnati is expected to attack the Eagles with a passing game, featuring Anderson, who has completed 171 of 287 for 2,494 yards and 16 touchdowns. He has a 59.6 per cent completion average, and has had only eight interceptions. Anderson throws mostly to wide receivers Isaac Curtis, Charley Joiner and Chip Myers. Fullback Bobbie Clark, Stan Fritts and Lenvil Elliott are the key Bengals' runners.

Eagles' Coach Mike McCormack is preparing for a Cincinnati aerial bombardment, since the Eagles are one of the worst teams in the NFL at rushing the passer.

"Paul (Brown) has a different philosophy this year," McCormack says of the Bengals' coach, who has been known over the years to feature the running game. "They've thrown 329 balls this season. He's got great speed in his receiving corps. That's why he's throwing."

McCormack admits that if the Eagles can't put pressure on Anderson (or Reaves) the Cincinnati quarterback will pick his team to pieces.

MAC cage action set on weekend

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Western Michigan, the Mid-American Conference basketball favorite, already has exhibited two pluses it lacked in the past to become a championship contender.

The Broncos have lacked depth and success on the road. Judging from their performances in a 2-0 start this winter, Western Michigan has overcome both problems.

"It's evident that we'll get more help from more people this year," said Coach Eldon Miller, preparing his veteran Broncos for a road trip to Wisconsin-Green Bay Saturday.

Miller's confidence must be buoyed the way Western Michigan triumphed at Wisconsin-Parkside Wednesday night. But he warned: "It will be as difficult to win at Green Bay as on the road in the conference."

All but three of the 10 MAC teams, Miami (Ohio), Toledo and Northern Illinois, face activity Saturday.

Ohio University and Bowling Green, off to shaky starts, draw the most difficult assignments.

The Bobcats, 1-2 after escaping college division Marietta Wednesday night, go to Northwestern. The Big Ten hosts stunned highly regarded Kentucky earlier this week.

Bowling Green, trying to shake off an upset to Wittenberg Wednesday night, visits St. Joseph's (Pa.).

Post-season grid honors

The completion of the autumn football season brings a shower of awards and honors on athletes.

All-Big Ten, All-American, the Outland and Heisman trophies are only a few of the post-season honors allotted college football players. High School players may receive all-league, all-district and all-state honors.

The winners of these awards are picked by a selection board sometimes made up of coaches and sometimes made up of sports writers.

As a member of the sportswriting fraternity, I have been petitioned to participate in a few of the post-season awards balloting — everything from the small College All-American selection to the high school all-district balloting.

Admittedly, five sportswriters sifting through the hundreds of names and statistics—as was the case in selecting the all-district squad last month—has its shortcomings. Someone, who should belong on the all-star squad, will be overlooked.

There is no perfect way to select such teams, but I am willing to go along with the attempts. I participate in all such balloting when asked, because I believe the recipients of such honors deserve recognition as long as no one reaps any monetary gain.

I have found one such awards program that I feel does make a financial gain for its sponsors. And, I refuse to participate in it.

The other day I received a letter from "Coach and Athlete" magazine, a publication out of Atlanta, Ga.

The publication solicits nominations for the "prep All-American football team," from sportswriters and coaches throughout the nation.

Any number of players from a nominator's area can be nominated. The publication leaves the number of choices up to the coaches and sportswriters.

All players nominated (over 5,000 last year) are included in the "Coach and Athlete Prep All-American Football yearbook" which sells for the tidy sum of $17.95.

The publication then solicits the nominees' families hoping to sell the yearbook to the parents.

There are other such publications that prey on a person's desire to see his name in print such as the "Distinguished American High School Student Yearbook" and "High School All-Americans."

The latter, is a Massachusetts based publication that made the mistake of placing a mythical basketball player, Shotwell, from a mythical Indiana high school in last year's edition.

The imaginary Shotwell was nominated by a high school coach in Indiana, who was wary of the publication and made Shotwell a 6-0 guard who averaged 27 points and 12 rebounds a game to lead Gladden Corner High School to the pinnacle of Hoosier basketball.

The company not only failed to check into the name, Elmer Shotwell, but also failed to check on All-Wea Creek Conference and Class C All-State honors that the imaginary player reportedly earned. Neither the conference or Class C—there are no classes in Indiana basketball—exist.

The same thing could easily happen with the "Coach and Athlete" yearbook if a prankster was so inclined.

Therefore, I have decided to toss my nomination form into the trash and forget about it. For those local players, who certainly deserve recognition for their prep grid exploits, I hope they understand.

I know I would hate to buy the yearbook and see my name listed next to Harold Endrun.

OAC all-conference stars named

CLEVELAND (AP) — Choice of the Ohio Athletic Conference football coaches for coach of the year is Al Christopher, who guided Muskingum to a conference title with a 9-0 victory over Wittenberg.

The conference said Thursday the coaches also placed six Muskies on their all-conference teams and named Muskingum senior Jeff Heacock to receive the Hank Critchfield Award as the top defensive back in the league.

Heacock, a 6-foot-2, 180-pounder, picked off seven passes to lead the conference in interceptions.

Baldwin-Wallace College placed 11 players on all-conference squads, including end Sam Crumpton, who receives the Mike Gregory Award for offensive linemen.

Other individuals cited included Denison's Denny Thome, picked for the Critchfield Award for best defensive lineman, and quarterback Gary Frost of Mount Union, the Gregory award for outstanding offensive back.

Wittenberg placed eight on the honors teams, and Mount Union had seven.

SCOL cagers set for full league slate

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

The South Central Ohio League basketball teams pair off for the second time this season setting up a four-game loop slate tonight.

The early season title race has four teams at the top of the standings, with 1-0 but that will change after tonight's action as two of the top teams, Greenfield McClain and Circleville, meet on the hardwood.

The other two league leaders, Washington C.H. and Wilmington, take on Unioto and Hillsboro respectively.

The other match up pits Miami Trace against Madison Plains as both teams come into tonight's action winless.

to outscore the opponents 160 to 107. The margin is even more widespread when counting just the time Bailey used his starters.

Greenfield on the other hand has had more trouble winning despite having an identical, 2-0, record as Circleville. McClain had to fight for its life two weeks ago against Hillsboro finally winning the contest in overtime.

The two teams have met once before this season at the league preview, and in one-half of play Circleville held a 25-14 lead.

Both teams are healthy, but Circleville has the edge in experience and talent.

WILMINGTON AT HILLSBORO

Both teams are coming off losses with Wilmington bowing to Xenia, one of the top teams in the Dayton area, and Hillsboro dropping a 59-55, overtime decision to Greenfield.

The Hurricane will have the height advantage tonight something they sorely missed last Saturday at Xenia. They will have to sharpen their shooting eye, however. The Hurricane five hit on only 19 per cent of their shots from the field in the last outing. Hillsboro has only one game under its belt while Wilmington has taken the floor twice this season which is a situation that can only hurt the inexperienced Indians.

WASHINGTON C.H. AT UNIOTO

The Blue Lions may take the court tonight without high-scoring guard Chuck Byrd in the starting lineup. He is hampered with a leg injury, but he reportedly will see some action.

The Blue Lions probably won't need him as the inexperienced Shermans are already leading candidates for the SCOL cellar.

Unioto's main problem has been defense and rebounding which is something the Blue Lions are sure to take advantage of — with John Denen and Ken Upthegrove clearing the boards and Doug Phillips and Byrd, when he plays, throwing in the points.

MADISON PLAINS AT MIAMI TRACE

The Panthers have been suffering through a ten-game losing streak which spans two seasons and they are currently in the running for the most-loses-by-the-fewest-points trophy.

It would be an excellent time to break the streak for the players and the fans sake as the Panthers open their home schedule.

Miami Trace would be considered a decided favorite, if it wasn't for the loss of guard Alan Conner, who suffered a deep thigh bruise and is listed as doubtful for the contest.

SCOL Standings

All-Ohio Shrine game readied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP). — Professional scouts always flock to the All-Ohio Shrine Bowl, but more than usual are expected to show up Saturday for the football game matching the state's top college seniors this season.

The reason is one player: Gene Swick of Toledo, the college's all-time career yardage leader. The Rockets' quarterback likely will be a first round pro draft choice.

Swick realizes he's living in a glass bowl as far as his performances in postseason all-star games are concerned.

"I guess I have a good chance to go first. It'll mean quite a bit financially," said the 6-foot-1, 188-pound minister's son, married and the father of a 16-month-old daughter.

"To some degree, I'm sure it will depend on how well I do in bowl games. I have absolutely no preference as to what team I want to go with, said the man who accounted for 8,074 yards with the Rockets.

One thing the scouts will like about Swick. He's durable. He never missed starting a game since his sophomore season.

Swick is realistic about becoming an instant pro success.

"I'm not too fast, about 4.9 in the 40. I'll need experience. I know I can throw and I think I have the intelligence to do the job," said the ace for the West squad.

The East, equipped with a splendid quarterback of its own, Kent State's Greg Kokal, is shooting for its fourth straight victory in the series in Ohio Stadium. Kickoff is 12:30 p.m. EST.

Jerry Schweickert of John Carroll heads the East coaching staff of Bill Hess of Ohio University, James McKinley of Central State and Lee Tressel of Baldwin-Wallace.

Dick Crum, the coach of Tangerine Bowl-bound Miami, is serving as the head man of the West coaches. His lieutenants are Jack Murphy of Toledo, Ron Marciniak of Dayton and Ken Wable of Mount Union.

The two 59-man squads are spending today visiting children in the Cincinnati Burns Institute. Proceeds from the contest go to the hospital.

THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF A FINE OLDER HOME!

With the Bicentennial year fast approaching many people have become aware of our heritage and there has been a trend to buying older homes. There are advantages too, especially when its the home that we are offering today, that is located in one of the prime locations in Washington, has all the features of a new home with updated wiring, wall to wall carpeting, new tasteful decorating inside and out but still remaining is the traditional oak woodwork, trim and doors that gives that warm and authentic appearance. But best of all is the spaciousness this home offers with its four bedrooms, living

RIDGEBACK MAY SEE ITS DOG DAYS

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The Rhodesian ridgeback, one of Africa's most distinctive breeds of dog, is threatened with losing its identity as Rhodesia moves to majority rule.

The breed gets its name from the ridge of hair running the length of the dog's spine.

But if African nationalists take over Rhodesia the name of the country will probably be changed to Zimbabwe so a member of the Rhodesian Ridgeback Club has suggested it get in first and rename the breed African ridgeback.

It is believed to originate from a Hottentot hunting dog which was crossed with various Dutch or German hunting dogs brought to Southern Africa in the 1800s.

The breed has also been introduced into several overseas countries.

The Aprian Way runs from Rome south through Capua and Brindisi, Italy.

Afternoon temperatures will rise into the 60s in many parts of Ohio today and well into the 50s elsewhere. Moisture will accompany the warm air into Ohio and clouds will increase over the state.

Showers will develop over the state tonight and continue Saturday as the cool air moves in.

Mild but breezy weather was forecast for today. Warm air from the Gulf of Mexico brought mild weather to much of the midwest, including Ohio, this morning.

Temperatures were in the 40s over most of the state early this morning. The coolest section was in the eastern counties where Zanesville and Youngstown reported readings in the upper 30s in the predawn hours.

At some places the mercury even rose a few degrees during the night. A strong low pressure system moving across southern Canada is drawing this warm air northward. As the low passes into eastern Canada a surge of cooler air will drop southeast across the Great Lakes and spread over Ohio Saturday.

A chance of snow flurries Sunday and a chance of showers Monday or Tuesday. Highs in the 30s and low 40s Sunday and in the 40s Monday and Tuesday. Lows in the 20s and low 30s.

New auto dealership holds grand opening

Ribbon-cutting ceremonies were held Friday morning as John Duff Chevrolet celebrated its grand opening. On hand were members of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce Ambassador's Club who also presented Duff and his wife with a plaque welcoming the dealership into the chamber.

Formerly Billie Wilson Chevrolet, 333 W. Court St., the new dealership was obtained on Oct. 7, and now boasts a fleet of approximately 50 new cars in the back lot directly to the rear of the service building. Two new easily mobile hoists have been added to the service department, and a growing staff of employees are on hand to serve customers.

Coffee and doughnuts were available to the number of people who attended the opening ceremonies in the large front showroom. Tickets for three door prizes were distributed for a later drawing.

Duff, 31, of 461 Staunton-Jasper Road, is a graduate of Ohio State University, and previously worked in a managerial capacity for his father-in-law's Chevrolet dealership in Russell's Point. He and his wife Janet, who also assists as a secretary in the agency, have a daughter and two sons.

The sales staff for the dealership is to be expanded in the near future, as Duff is currently finding the incoming business to be prolific.

Firemen check 3 blazes

A sawdust collector, a television set and a car created three different fires for Washington C.H. firemen Thursday.

The sawdust collector caught fire at Cor-Tec, Inc., 2351 Kenskill Ave., at 3:08 p.m. Thursday. Firemen were on the scene one hour fighting the blaze with water. They reported the cause of the fire unknown, but suggested it may have been caused by a spark from a loose motor shaft.

The television transformer at the Anna Barney residence, 215 Wagner Way, caught fire at 5:27 p.m. Thursday. Firemen subdued the blaze with water and estimated damage, confined only to the color television, as $50.

A car driven by Mark Lamberson, owned by Mary Lamberson, 618 Gibbs Ave., caught fire at 9:38 p.m. Thursday at 1640 CCC-Highway-W. Firemen reported the auto battery shorted out causing the wiring to burn. Lamberson had subdued the blaze by throwing gravel on the burning wires before firemen arrived. Damage was estimated at $50.
